DECISIVE STUCO ELECTIONS TOMORROW

Missionary Convention Slated For Next Week

REV. PAUL ANDRUS

April 22nd, 23rd, and 24th have been set aside as the dates for the 8th Annual Missionary Convention sponsored by the Trevecca Missionary Fellowship.

The special speakers for this year's convention are Mr. Franklin Cook, Administrative Assistant of the Department of World Missions; Rev. Paul Andrus, missionary to Bolivia; Rev. Arthur Evans, missionary to Swaziland; and Miss Mary Lou Riggle, missionary to British Honduras.

Each of these missionaries is scheduled to speak during one of the chapel services to be held on these dates, and for special services to be held each evening at 7:30.

Mr. Cook plans to interview prospective missionary candidates while he is here for the convention. Other activities for the week include luncheons at which the missionaries will be guest speakers and special seminars to be conducted by the missionaries.

The purpose of the convention is to set aside a time for students and faculty to view missions from a wider scope and to promote interest in this phase of the general church.

P. E. Field To Be Renovated For Intramurals

The Physical Education Department of Trevecca Nazarene College has recently been allotted funds for the improvement of its currently existing athletic field.

According to Coach Bill Green, head of the department, these improvements are to include the installation of a new and permanent backstop and a leveling off of the field itself.

The field is to be leveled off and made ready for intramural sports by the volunteer labor of the members of Trevecca's Athletic Association.

The purpose of this work is to provide adequate facilities for the softball teams to play intramural games on their own field. This will eliminate the necessity of travelling to East Park, as they have done in the past. It will also give more students the opportunity to watch and build up spirit and enthusiasm over the games.

It is estimated that it will be at least two more weeks before the field will be ready for use.

1970 Presidential Candidates

PHILIP D. BOWLES

On Friday, April 17th, the students of Trevecca Nazarene College will be electing Student Council officers for the 1970-'71 school year.

Those students running for the offices of president and vice president are as follows: for the office of president, Phil Bowles and Dennis Moore; for vice president, Bob Brower, Fred Huff, and Jim Quiggins.

Phil Bowles and Dennis Moore are both members of the Junior Class. Phil is currently serving as Junior Class representative to the Student Council and Dennis represents the Trev-Echoes on the Council by virtue of his office of Trev-Echoes editor.

Both Bob Brower and Fred Huff are sophomores. Jim Quiggins is a junior. Bob is now serving as Student Council representative for the Sophomore Class. Fred has served as president of his class and is a very active participant in its activities. Jim is also serving as representative on the Council by virtue of his office as T.A.A. president.

Those students running for the office of treasurer are Edith Reese, Barbara Self, and Becky Smith. Running unopposed for the office of secretary is Paulette Johnson.

Campaigning for the elections began at 12:01 a.m. Monday, April 13th, and ends tonight at 12:00, midnight.

Students running for the various offices will be making their campaign speeches tomorrow morning during chapel. Each of the candidates will be introduced by their campaign managers, after which they will make a short speech.

Polls will open at 10:50 a.m. on Friday and will close at 5:00 p.m. Voting will take place in the lobby of McClurkan Memorial Auditorium. Election results will be made public Friday night.

Student Activists Go For $110,000

It could only be described as a student uprising. Coeds poised for invasion of the home-economics building. Male students grabbed axes, broom handles, and buckets of paint—then assaulted the college town of Harrisonburg, Virginia.

But there were no injuries, the campus of Eastern Mennonite College emerged unscathed, and the townsfolk had nothing but praise for the determined display of student power.

The insurgency began one weekend last month when trustees of the 920-student college announced that $110,000 was needed by Monday night to meet $400,000 in matching funds for a federal grant that would enable the school to build a new $1.5 million library.

By early Saturday, the word was out, and students fanned into the community chopping wood, washing cars, and punching doorbells for donations. Coeds became housemaids, men hired out at butlers, yardsmen, and even singing messengers. Others hit up parents, relatives and churches. A bank kicked in $1,000, but most gifts were small.

Pies, cakes and other goodies baked by the coeds were sold at a campus auction Monday night, the deadline. By 2 a.m., when the last item went on the block, $112,000 had been raised—and money was still coming in the next week from as far away as California.

Harrisonburg's mayor appeared at a college chapel service and handed a plaque honoring the school to Eastern Mennonite president Myron Augsburger. Student coordinator Everett Resler summed it up: "Most of these kids are tired of hearing about college demonstrations, and they're darn proud to be a part of one like this."

TREVECCA EXPLORING CO-OP PROGRAMS

By Paulette Johnson

The administration at Trevecca Nazarene College has been investigating various means of establishing a cooperative education program with local colleges and with more distant sister colleges of her own denomination.

At the present time most exploratory work is being done with colleges in the Nashville area.

In 1968-'69, a report was drawn up based upon research carried on by a team consisting of Mrs. Lyla Mackey, Dr. John A. Knight, and Mr. Dale Sievers.

This report was sent to Washington as a follow-up to a small research grant given to the College for that purpose.

Many areas of cooperation were investigated and several colleges in the Southeastern United States were visited in order to find a workable plan of cooperation between schools.

This year the College administration is attempting to implement some of these suggestions. One plan which has been worked out is that between Trevecca and Belmont. The details and principles of this cooperative program were discussed and derived at by Dr. Stanton Parry of Trevecca and Dean Glen Kelly of Belmont with the approval of the respective presidents.

The program now in operation involves an exchange between two professors. The purpose of this exchange as stated by Dr. Parry is, "so that both institutions may receive the benefit of specialized training which not otherwise would be available to each."

Dr. Gerald Nyssen who holds a Ph.D. in inorganic chemistry and is a member of the Trevecca staff, teaches one course at Belmont as part of his regular teaching load. Dr. William Martindale, Professor of Organic Chemistry with a Ph.D. from the University of Alabama, at Trevecca as part of his regular teaching load each quarter teaches a course each quarter at Belmont College.

Salaries of each of the professors are paid by their home institutions. Travel costs for each are assumed by the college

Final Trevecca Artist Series Set For Saturday

The third and final Lyceum Program of this school year will be given here by the Peabody Trio on Saturday, April 18, 1970, at 8:00 P.M.

Performing in the Fine Arts Auditorium will be Lucien Stark, Stephen Clapp, and David Vanderkooi, all of which are on the faculty at Peabody College. "Each one is an outstanding soloist in his own right and they also play very well together," Barbara McClain, Chairman of the Lyceum Series Committee, said in a recent interview.

Mr. Clapp, Concert Master and soloist of the Nashville Symphony, will play the violin. He is a graduate of the Julliard school of music and has performed extensively in Europe as well as in this country.

Mr. Stark, pianist, also studied at Julliard and has a doctorate in music from the University of

VOTE

In an attempt to present complete Election neutrality in the Trev-Echoes, there will be no column from the editor in this issue.

CONFRONT THE ISSUES

Confront the issues! Take an interest in student government—whether national, community, or college. When voting, do you vote intelligently, considering leadership ability; or blindly, thinking of popularity? Perhaps a better question is, do you even vote?

These are a few of the issues confronting every student this week. Election time is fast approaching. Each of us needs to take a personal interest in the campaign. No, we may not be running for an office, but we can become involved. The Council is to represent you in college affairs, thus the choice is yours. Why complain about the officers if you have not voted?

If there are candidates with which you are not familiar, talk to others who have worked with them. This is your responsibility. Each candidate deserves an equal opportunity.

Voting should be a responsibility as well as a privilege. The duties of an elections chairman should be to guide and to organize the elections, not to look for people to vote as has often been the case.

A quorum must be established in order to have a valid election. Only you can help reach this quorum. Be a responsible student—confront the issues—have a voice—vote.

Priorities in Campus Appearance

Neglect is a problem that appears in most areas of life. Sometimes it is simply easier to put off a certain task rather than keeping up with it. Such is the case on our campus and it especially appears in our beloved Alumni Auditorium.

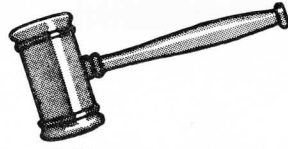

The condition of our only auditorium should be maintained to its highest possible degree. Since all of the students make use of its facilities at least three or four times a week, its condition should be kept up. Environment has a great deal to do with the attitude of the people engulfed in the situation.

It is readily admitted that there is not much that can be done with McClurkan to improve its aged condition, but that does not excuse the little things that need fixing that would help appearances. It seems as if the Maintenance Department's time could be put to better use than building asphalt speed bumps that scrape the bottom of many cars. Rather that time should be spent replacing the lights that are out in the auditorium, fixing the delapidated venetian blinds, getting the curtain cleaned, that is supposed to hide the stage light, so that "TNC" will once again be white instead of a dingy grey. And what about those lights and wires dangling from behind our dirty curtain, how much effort will it take to fix that? Surely not as long as it took to build car hazards, and the working conditions are much better.

Then there is the problem with some spots in the ceiling, primarily right in front where it is pushed up and also in the back over our "safe" balcony (have you wondered why no one is sitting up there anymore?) where the back wall was torn out. Is it just going to be left with the parts of the ceiling hanging there? It has been five weeks since that wall has been removed, some other action should have taken place by now.

The main purpose of this is to point out some of the little things that could be done to help the appearance of our auditorium. But it should also point out some of the little things that degrade the appearance and efficiency of our entire campus.

DEATH OF A COUNCIL

1970—the year Student Council died. What caused the death seems to be a mystery. Never has the need for an energetic and dedicated Council been greater. Never has the opportunity for united voice of the students to be heard been greater. Yet, no one seems to be the least bit concerned as the make-up of those who are designated as leaders. When you have to beg people to run for a major office in the student body, it seems that death is but moments away. Oh sure, this week has been highlighted by campaign posters, and maybe even a little talk as to qualifications. However, if those running don't meet your ideas of what you expect in leader, keep your complaints to yourself, for you let the ballot appear as it does by your lack of concern and/or effort. What I am getting at is that if you, the Student Body of Trevecca Nazarene College, don't care about your student government, then you deserve the death of this organization.

Granted, it won't die. Some of the very few who do care and who are running for office, those who are involved, the will be the ones who will try to revitalize the system to keep it alive maybe another year. But a word of caution. If you don't support them in their efforts, then don't be surprised if, in the middle of next year, they throw up their hands and let things pass away.

Now is the time to start the revitalization program. First, listen carefully tomorrow in chapel. Then, after hearing the candidates and considering their records and programs, VOTE. Sure, it will take a couple of minutes. But, to be personal, if you don't vote tomorrow, then keep your mouth shut next year regarding student government. I know that there is more interest in student affairs than signs would indicate. My bluntness is not intended to offend, but hopefully, to arouse some of this interest to the point of action. Action is the only hope of life for the Student Council.

Michigan. He has studied in Germany and France and toured Mexico in recital in 1966.

Mr. Vanderkooi, holding an advanced degree from the Eastman school of music will perform on the cello. He has taught at several universities, and in 1961 he gave a recital at Carnegie Hall.

The trio, consisting of the violin, piano, and cello, will perform works by Mozart, Brahms, and Kirchner.

No admission will be charged.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Beginning June 15th, we are going to start our summer Day Camp program for youngsters (ages 6 to 12 years) at various camp sites in East Nashville. At the present time, we are looking for people who would be interested in working as a camp counselor.

The schedule is from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m., Monday through Friday at $35 a week. The camps will conclude on August 21st. If you are interested, please contact me, then I will set up an interview and we will discuss more of the total day camp program.

Also, we are planning a Club type program in the Elementary Schools in East Nashville to begin this fall. This involves people working part-time on four afternoons each week from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. and on Saturday mornings from 9:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. at $17.50 a week. The Men leaders would be in charge of coaching football, basketball and softball with boys ages 8 to 11. The Women leaders would plan their own activities with the same age elementary girls. This is a September through May job. So, if you are interested in becoming a Club leader, please call me.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

After reading the last issue of the Trev-Echoes, let me share a quote from an article "Leadership and the Educational Needs of the Nation" submitted by the National Advisory Council on Educational Professions Development to the President and the Congress of the United States, October 1, 1969.

"Too many of our young are concerned by what they are against—the war, racism, poverty, corruption. They need, as have all youth in all times, to be for things, to have a star, a dream. While we recognize that such affirmative leadership is subtle, we will require politically difficult actions, we feel that the growing dismay and cynicism of our youth could develop into a calamity of devastating proportions."

Sincerely yours in Christ,
S. P. Parry
Dean of the College

Dear Editor, This letter is in response to certain rules that have been brought to our attention by the Dean of Women.

We believe that she has our best interest in mind but we also believe a few of these rules are ridiculous. Most of the rules which have been made in the past have not been enforced. We also believe that other phases of campus life should have attention rather than whether we should wear shoes in the lobby. If we are going to have rules, we believe they should be enforced, but when rules are made could we not be given the reason behind them and let us as students express our opinions openly about rules that affect our life and freedom?

Girls of the Dorm

Letters are opinions of the writers. All letters must be submitted one week prior to publication and not exceed 300 words.

Dear Editor:

I would like to clarify a few items presented in your previous issue under the titles of "Something Extra," by Charles Davis, and "Cultural Enrichment for Whom?" by John Teter. First, Mr. Davis articulated his disillusionment with the "something extra" of Trevecca which for three years he thought was true but now he finds is not true. He implies that if only the administration and faculty would heed the desires of the students, all would be well within the college community. Why have any curfew hours? Why have room inspections? In fact, the implication is why have any regulations at all? Wouldn't students be happier if they had complete freedom to do as they please? Perhaps so, but I doubt it. Everyone knows that some regulations are necessary for the well-being of any social group. Trevecca is still a Christian school with a genuine concern for the good of each individual. A part of the maturation process is learning to live a disciplined life with regard to physical, mental, spiritual, and social concern.

Second, the question of the relationship between the Dean of Students and the Student Council was raised by Mr. Davis. I believe that all the students who met with the Board will agree that there was an openness and willingness to listen to student opinion and that no effort was made to force the students into a mould pre-determined by the administration. If this be true, why the distrust of having the courtesy to discuss the Student Council proposals with the Dean of Students as well as the Board?

Third, the Lyceum Program was discussed by both Mr. Davis and Mr. Teter. The Lyceum Committee has on several occasions asked for student requests for "cultural" programs and the Student Council has responded by continuing to raise the issue of re-structuring the committee. Furthermore, when they were offered an opportunity to choose between several possibilities, they reacted by saying there was a conflict of dates (which was their own creation by not checking the Master Calendar) and suggested that we should use the money for next year. What I am saying is that the Lyceum Committee has done its best to solicit the "likes and desires" of students but has received very little cooperation from the Student Council.

Fourth, Mr. Davis refers to "the grapevine that now has it that some faculty members have been approached about their student orientation." Whose "grapevine" is he referring to? Students? Faculty? Administration? If this is just a rumor, why does he believe it? If there is any truth to it, why doesn't he have the courage to discuss it with the proper officials of the college?

If something has happened to the "something extra" of Trevecca Nazarene College, perhaps we should ask ourselves, "What have we done to help Trevecca be a college with "something extra"?"

MEET THE CANDIDATES

Presidential Candidates Speak

BY PHILIP D. BOWLES

The student council is designed to provide opportunities for student participation in the affairs of the college. In essence this group functions as the liaison between student on one hand and the faculty and administration on the other.

Because of this complex and very important function of student government, it is important that all students, and especially the student body president, work toward the attainment of the delicate balance between a strict (almost reactionary) attitude of loyalty toward the policies and purposes of the school (where there is no desire for change) and the idea of extreme progressivism through student involvement (almost to the point of wanting change for the sake of change).

When this delicate balance is attained in any student government, the following two purposes naturally become characteristic of it.

The purpose of this organization shall be to foster and maintain the arms, ideals and principles of Trevecca Nazarene College by: Promoting responsible citizenship on campus through the discussion and enactment of laws of the Associated Students and consideration of other significant issues, and, in the broader community, by thoughtful, discriminative attitudes and actions.

Manifesting a responsible and cooperative attitude toward the policies and purposes of our College and Church.

("Constitution of the Associated Students of Trevecca Nazarene College, 1969-70." Article I, Section 2, Parts F and G)

I believe that the opinions of all students rather than those of particular social groups should be considered by student council; therefore, the majority may truly rule through this method.

Our Constitution expresses the following idea concerning leadership which I wholeheartedly endorse: "a duty of the president is to provide inspiration and vision for the direction that student government and student action shall take (Article VI, Section 2, Part D).

If I am elected to serve you in the capacity of student body president I shall uphold these ideas concerning the purpose of student government and the duty of the president in regard to the students.

BY DENNIS L. MOORE

Each of us would like to see a better Trevecca for tomorrow. Likewise we look forward to a better progressive student government for the future.

With this as my ultimate goal I seek the election of Student Council President.

For three years I have had the opportunity to closely work with and observe the past three Student Body Presidents. During this time I have attempted to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of each of these Trevecca student leaders. I feel that during this period I have gained important experience and knowledge that would be helpful in assuming the position of Student Council President.

"Total unconditional commitment" is indeed an important aspect that I would exhibit as president. Being the leader of a progressive student body requires time, and little conflict of interests can be tolerated.

"Total service and representation" is another area that I want to stress. What the students want—comes first. I plan through the use of questionnaires and communication with more varied people of our campus to serve in the areas that need student government action.

"Total communication" is where much emphasis is needed. There would be fewer problems at Trevecca if all groups would work together at fully communicating with each other. Never should students be "against" the administration, but rather both groups (all groups) should be working for one united goal of improving.

If elected president of the Student Council I would make the following specific proposals for the new year:

—Questionnaires distributed to students at regular intervals to obtain student feelings and opinions many of Trevecca's areas of interests and concerns.

—An "Off-Campus Student Organization" that would give that previously unheard of facet of our student body a voice and would provide needed social activities for off-campus students.

—A Calendar-Bulletin Board that would direct students and visitors to coming religious, social, or other events at Trevecca.

—An "All-School Project Commission" to study and evaluate the alternatives for the new all-school project and to make recommendations to the Student Council.

—Possible restructure of the Fall Leadership Conference that would provide more meaningful communication with students, faculty, and administrators. Communication is the key to success

Vice-Presidential Candidates Platform

BOB BROWER

Experience is the best teacher and working in the Student Council provides a wealth of this valuable experience. One finds that there are many and varied assignments that the Council member is involved with. The Council, if it is to function well, must be more than just sixteen people meeting together for two or three hours every week. It means many hours of work besides the normal activities of school life. There are times when hours are spent running around the city looking at furniture and collecting ideas for the college center. Then there are times when one has to dig out the facts and try to answer the questions your research committee has been given. It takes time talking to people and collecting figures and statistics to base a report on, then more time giving a report from the findings and making a recommendation to the Council. Being aware of the time factor I am willing to give all the time required.

In addition to this, the Vice-President is the one who serves as the chairman of the Inter-Club Association. The purpose of this association is to promote and then coordinate campus activities. This alone will require many hours of work. I believe that through this a unity of purpose and activity can be developed. I would like to see every class and club become involved in sponsoring at least one activity each quarter. This year has been devoted to organization and the formation of the constitution. Next year it will take a willingness to devote the necessary time in order to function to its capacity. To achieve this I plan to work with each class and club officer bringing about an over-all cooperation among campus organizations.

I have enjoyed the privilege of working on the Student Council this year. If I am elected and given the opportunity to serve as Vice-President I will work hard to perform the duties of the office and of the Council, trying to the best of my ability to represent the Student Body.

FRED HUFF

When asked what my platform is, I usually reply, "My feet." In reality, my platform as a candidate for Vice President of STUCO consists of three planks. They are as follows:

Plank one. I feel that the Interclub Council should be reorganized and fully developed and put into use. The council would consist of one representative from each club with the Vice President of STUCO as the chairman. Social and/or club functions would be approved by the Interclub council before being presented at Student Council meetings.

Plank two. I am for an enlarged schedule of social events on campus throughout the year. I feel that the social events on campus have been lacking not only in quantity but also in quality. I wish to see a fuller and better social calendar for next year.

Plank three. I feel that the Lyceum Series needs to be renovated. Plank four. We need more student participation. More students need to take an interest in what is happening. More students need to become active in the clubs and out of class activities. More students need to join the clubs and become active members. Also the student leaders need to be more representation of the body of students which they represent. They need to get a broader scope of student's opinions.

Plank five. I feel that the campus organization should sponsor more activities for the whole school. For example, the Ministerial Association sponsored a skating party which was a big success. We need more activities like this.

JIM QUIGGINS

Growth is a dynamic force to witness. The students of Trevecca Nazarene College for 1969-1970 are perhaps the most fortunate student body to attend Trevecca because we have had the opportunity to watch and feel growth in a way that no one before us has; Physical growth, Athletic Growth, Academic Growth, and the most dynamic development of Spiritual Growth. Trevecca has been growing since 1901, but only begun to mature in 1969 and now is the time for us to mature along with her.

As our alma mater breaks into adulthood, we too are on the brink of adult obligation and everyone tied with the college takes on new responsibility with T N C's spurt of development. The burden for administrator-faculty-and student communication becomes more crucial than ever before. Demands by the student body upon the administration attempt to counteract the demands of the administration upon the student body and the faculty is trapped in the precarious middle position and pressured to "take sides" or align themselves with either students or administrators in the crossfire. Fortunately the barriers that plague human communication are greatly reduced by the religious bonds we experience here. Changed lives result in a new and changed interaction, but who should bear responsibility to communicate in our collegium?

Publication Candidates

JOHN TETER—Trev-Echoes

There are three candidates for next year in the area of publications.

Esther Carey and Robert Garber are seeking the office of Darda editor. John Teter is running unopposed for the office of Trev-Echoes editor.

Esther Carey is a sophomore from Manchester, Tennessee. She is majoring in English and minoring in Education.

Esther feels that not only is every college unique, but that each school year is in itself different from any other. It is her desire "to create a year-book which will help students to recall this uniqueness."

Esther considers "the ability to make decisions and to meet deadlines as the most important qualifications for editor."

She served as the news editor of her high school newspaper and as a staff member of the Darda this year. She is currently in charge of Student Payroll. Because of these experiences she feels that she is qualified for the office of editor.

Robert Garber is a sophomore from Wilmington, North Carolina. His major is Biology and he is minoring in both Secondary Education and Chemistry.

Robert has worked on a year-book staff ever since he was a sophomore in high school. He has been editor for his class (freshman year) and Art & Layout editor (sophomore year) on the Darda staff.

He feels that his qualifications are "experience plus patience and willingness to work and stick with it."

John Teter is a junior from Nashville, Tennessee. He is majoring in Business Administration and minoring in Religion.

In considering his purpose for running, John said that "after serving this year, I realize that the average student has no other way to be informed or to voice his opinion. My goal is to make Trev-Echoes reflective of student ideas and informative to the student."

Next year will be TNC's first full year as an accredited college. John sees this "hallmark year" as an opportunity for Trev-Echoes.

"Through editorials and reporting, Trev-Echoes could be one of the most constructive elements on campus towards creating student unity and morale—and I want to be a part."

and instructional materials."

One of the items discussed and now being investigated is that dealing with shared time on data processing. If this proves successful, it may provide access to data processing equipment and help two or three institutions carry the cost of such items.

The implications of a program of this type and future possibilities connected with it were summed up by Dr. Parry as follows, "There are some very real possibilities for small colleges to economize in their operations and at the same time perhaps provide better services through some of these cooperative efforts. It is hoped that some cooperation can be effected through the Nazarene College System, which could be beneficial to those participants. This is an area that we have just begun to explore, but it has real possibilities for development."

for the new years.

If elected president I would put new important emphasis on the following:

—A Summer Student Government is now a necessity. The duties of president no longer require only nine months of work but rather a full twelve months. Summer student government representation would be continued.

—Town meetings arranged to provide "more meaningful communication" and scheduled at closer intervals.

—Trevacca now needs some form of weekly week-end activities. This challenge will be met with both social and religious functions.

—An Inter-Club Association that would have "new important service" to the Student Council and Student Body.

I want in every way to totally represent and serve the students with a dynamic student government. Your vote and support will be appreciated.

Quiggins

Student body at Trevecca is far more than capable to bridge the gap that may result as a natural tendency when college managers attempt to harness and direct growth while the growing object tends to sometimes accelerate uninhibited. At the same time we are capable to communicate when College management may in the midst of conflict lose sight of everyone's common goal of advancement in all areas of life in a fashion that is contemporary and relevant. The essential is an action called "empathy", which is a mental enterin into the position of your fellow man. Empathy is right at home in a Christian context and has potential to abound at Trevecca. The responsibility must fall on both peer groups and capable leaders must be on hand to assist in its cultivation.

The lines of empathetic communication are moving in both the administrative and student government area at T.N.C. The student representation on administrative councils and greater recognition by the board of trustees shows encouraging signs on behalf of the administrators and the development of the Inter-Club Council to coordinate student activity is indicative of the spirit of advancement on our attempt to improve Trevecca.

The Student Council of course has functioned well as the tool of the associated students due greatly to capable leaders. Naturally, the position of Vice-President for which I seek election is not taken lightly by anyone and the duties and responsibilities are precise and demanding. As Chairman of the Inter-Club Council I am prepared to initiate it in its first actual year of operation and lend my ability to direct the organization of club and class activities in a unified manner. There are numerous duties that the office holds, some are obvious and most are subtle, but most are recognized. Regardless of the task, my most important responsibility as Vice-President would be no greater than your responsibility as a communicating student: To be objective, to research thoroughly before evaluating, to be an individual, to represent your fellow students honestly; and along with all your goals and desires to possess empathy.

This year fashion has come out with something great for the girl that needs a new spring wardrobe but has a low budget—the dirndl skirt that can be made for less than two dollars. It is also the simplest pattern going in the sewing world. In fact the skirt is so simple that it can be made without a pattern.

To start your dirndl wardrobe purchase several cuts of bright colored cotton (about a yard and a half of each). Sew up the side seams, add an elastic waist band and hem! To add to the total look sew up a matching sash or buy an unusual belt.

Belts can and should have character. The stringy little ones in plastic are usually meaningless and better discarded. If your figure warrants a distinctive marker somewhere between rib cage and hipbones, then add a belt that makes a fashion statement. If your figure doesn't warrant it, you will look slimmer with no belt at all, regardless of the current belt revival.

Remember the simple-to-make dirndl this season when you are buying your spring and summer clothes.

In Memory

MY LIVING SHALL NOT BE IN VAIN

GAROLD LEE KINNAMON

By James Brown and Becky Bowers

The rain refreshes the earth. Soon it dries in the heat of the sun, but the good the rain left behind is immeasurable. It is food for the grass, flowers and trees. These are fruits for which we all are thankful. The beauty of nature is revealed and our hurrying to and fro seems to lose importance.

As the rain falls from heaven to renew Nature's world, so was the life of one friend, Gary Kinnamon. Even though a short segment of his life was spent at TNC many changes occurred here. Many lasting friendships were made and many critical riddles of life were solved here. The pleasure was ours to have known Gary. He was an intelligent individual, full of hopes for the future. He sought to find himself, his purpose for living, and a happiness in friendship, love and understanding. He valued every person he met. In his reasoning, he understood much more than many of us because he took time to watch his fellowman. Gary was looking forward to a life of service to his Savior, for in the revival on campus he received pardon for the past and accepted God's will for the future. Gary played the guitar well. He went on out-reach programs to help other young people. He was looking forward to trying out for an ensemble here on campus. No doubt he would have made a great contribution to many more lives.

His life was like a day dawning with a cloudy morning, the sunlight never really shining through until noonday when God broke through, giving light to everything. For us it seems his day was too short, that maybe the sunset came too quickly. But the lives Gary helped in those few minutes cannot say his life was spent in vain.

If I can help somebody as I pass along.
If I can cheer somebody with a word or song.
If I can show somebody that he's traveling wrong,
Then my living shall not be in vain.

BY VIRGINIA KING

Last November a letter was written by Garold Kinnamon to a faculty member here at Trevecca. He had heard the Encounters sing at Olivet and felt the spirit with which they had sung speak to his heart. Gary was not a Christian and the Holy Spirit was speaking to him.

Even though Gary had been good, he knew that was not enough. He wanted the best in his life, and he worked toward that goal. It was this way about everything that he did. His guitar and other equipment was always kept shining and in perfect order. Since he loved track, he was always working toward the day when Trevecca could have a team. Many evenings one could see Gary running several miles down Murfreesboro Road or wakling with weights on his ankles to strengthen his legs, always with the thought of keeping in shape.

When Gary accepted the Lord all his goals were centered on Christ. It was beautiful to watch, for Christ gave him courage to do things that he had been afraid to try before. Speaking in public did not come easily. Playing music about the Lord that he loved was his way of communicating and telling about this love. Many will remember Gary whenever they hear the song that he loved, THE WAY THAT HE LOVES, for it expressed much that he felt.

In one of his letters home he said, "Nothing new, Mom, just the joy of living." One does not have to be told how proud and thankful his family was to know that he had found himself.

Let us all take a lesson from one who had dedicated his talents to the Lord. Gary had a genuine concern for others and if something was not right between himself and another, he worked at making it right. He often said, "Don't look at the outside of a person, but the inside. Don't be concerned with small things, but first accept people as they are." Each week some time was devoted to teaching children, who had their own special problems, how to play the guitar. Gary learned that one always receives much more when giving of one's self.

Those who knew and loved Gary will miss him, but as one student has said, "My loss is God's gain." There would be no greater tribute for those who were touched by his life than to accept Christ and make Him King of their life.

People Everywhere

By Gary Kinnamon

People everywhere
Hear what I have to say—
I want to tell you about the Love of God
That's in my heart today (wo-yeah)
That's in my heart today.
I searched like lots of people, you see
To find some meaning in life for me.
I tried all the things in which purpose might lie
but deep inside I was living a lie.
I had no reason for my life to go on
It's sad to say but true
Then Jesus came and spoke to me
Saying you know I died for you, yes
I died for you.
Jesus became my friend that day
He took away my sin.
I now have my reason for my life to go on since He became my friend.
Yes, he is my friend.
(to first verse)

After the memorial services and rituals given to everyone after death, will his memory linger here? Yes, in the hearts of the ones that knew him well he will never be forgotten. And those that knew him only by name or face shall never forget the lesson taught them by his death. Death will confront each of us—live life each day as if it were the last.

STUCO:
OPEN LETTER TO BOOKSTORE MANAGER

Dear Mrs. Morris:
On behalf of the Associated Student Body, we the Student Council, would like to thank you for the service beyond the expected in operating the college bookstore. We are more than satisfied with the selection available and the service is more than adequate. You and your staff have proven to be very efficient—something for which we can never say thank you enough.

In addition, your rapport with the students had made shopping in "Ye Ole Bookstore" a real pleasure. It is this "extra" that adds to the Trevecca personality. You are to be commended for your time and dedication.
Once again, a great big THANK YOU.
Sincerely,
The Student Council

New Registration Procedure Proves Highly Successful

As of April 8, 594 students have enrolled for spring quarter classes, according to a recent report from the Registrar's office.

In evaluating the new advance registration procedure used for the first time this quarter, Mr. E. Drell Allen, Registrar, said, "the overall acceptance was excellent. Prior to leaving for the Spring recess, 424 had completed the registration process, 107 others were ready for completion needing only to appear at the Business Office." The remainder of the students were late pre-registering, new or transfer students.

Concerning prospects for the future, it is expected that the present procedure will be used, working out a few of the problems. Although this type of registration is much more convenient to the students, the work is multiplied for the Registrar, Business Office, and Financial Aid personnel. It is generally agreed that we are moving in the right direction.

Mr. Allen also said, "I also feel that on the student's part, greater responsibility must be taken in preparation of schedules. Faculty counselors are glad to assist, but the planning of the individual academic program is, in the final analysis, the student's responsibility." He also stressed the importance of taking courses in sequence and in the right years (100 and 200 courses for Freshmen and Sophomores, 300 and 400 series classes for Juniors and Seniors).

"The number of course changes after registration is far too high . . . and has a built in unfairness," Mr. Allen said. "When courses are selected from controlled classes and the class maximum is reached, others who may need it are denied entry. However, a series of drops will not only reduce the size of the class, but it has already needlessly barred another student from meeting his requirement."

Spanish Club Sponsors Pan Am

Governor Buford Ellington has proclaimed this week as Pan American Week. It is to be celebrated on campus Thursday. Invited by the Spanish Club, the Pan American Association will be in charge of the chapel program. Mayor Beverly Briley will speak in chapel. Also, in chapel a quartet from Trevecca will sing a Spanish ballad. Mr. Niswanger, president of the Pan American Club, will be present.

Friday night at 7:30 the regular monthly meeting of the Pan American Association of Tennessee will be held in the college Center. Mr. John Gaines, coordinator of foreign languages of the State of Tennessee, will speak. Refreshments will be served and entertainment provided.

The organization of twenty countries of North, Central, and South America compose the Pan American Union. Originally the International Bureau of the American Republics, it was formed to promote understanding among countries.

CLOSE SEASON PREDICTED IN SOCIETY SOFTBALL

ALPHA AND GAMMA WIN OPENERS

Softball got into full swing Wednesday with opening victories going to the Alphas and Gammas.

The Alphas downed the Betas 18 to 9, with fine hitting and a well balanced attack. It was a close game until the late innings when the Alpha bats started to bomb and the Beta pitching went sour. Eric Kesselring had the big blow of the game with a Grand Slam home run.

On the other diamond the Gammas were pounding the Deltas 27 to 11. The Gammas showed a well-balanced attack with a total of 25 hits and only two fielding errors. Jack Menafee had the hot bat for the "green" team as he went 5 for 5 at the plate. The Deltas couldn't get much going and were hampered by errors, but should be a team to watch for.

The Betas came back strong after their opening defeat to beat the Gammas 14 to 10. The Beta air-tight infield and good hitting led them to victory. Defensive standout was Jim Quiggins who came up with every ball hit his way. Randy Smith had the big bat with a home run in the first inning.

The Gammas looked bad in the field and at the plate. They committed many errors and hits were few and far between.

This looks like a very tight season with all teams about equal and having the same record going into the second week of action.

DELTA AND BETA TAKE SATURDAY GAMES

Behind the masterful pitching of Ted Hill the Deltas quieted the booming bats of the Big "A". Hill limited the Alphas to only three hits in five innings as the Deltas won 23 to 0.

The Deltas had everything clicking with only one fielding error. The Deltas big lift came from the bat of Don Guessman, who blasted two home runs, one a Grand Slam and collected nine RBI's for the day.

Some Girls Enjoy Sports

Even though the society schedule is half over and no games have been played, enough girls were present in the gym Wednesday afternoon, April 8, to have a game for fun and enjoyment. Each team, the E.A.R.'s and the N.C.A.'s, had seven members from the various societies. Two games were played with the E.A.R.'s taking championship. Scores were 14-3 and 15-10. Sandra Malone and Sharon Cronise scored the most points for the winning team and the N.C.A. high scorers were Janelle Whetstone and Sharon Russell. The other team members for the E.A.R.'s included Nancy Mackey, Marguerite Bowdoin, Joy Brown, Lynda Taylor and JoAnne Fulwood. The N.C.A.'ers also had help from Edith Reece, Carol Madding, Pat Alexander, Rachel Jacobs and Bunny Rawlings.
